DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH AND AMERICAN STUDIES STATE EXAM 2023 COMPONENTS, SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY & GUIDELINES

LINGUISTICS COMPONENT

The LINGUISTICS component of the state exam includes:

- I. A text of about 350 400 words, original, non-adapted; language Modern English; genre popular science.
- II. Nine tasks organized on three levels of difficulty:
- i) Low level of difficulty three questions 10 points each
- ii) Intermediate level of difficulty three questions 15 points each
- iii) High level of difficulty three questions 20 points each

Each low-level question brings a maximum of 10 points, each intermediate level question brings a maximum of 15 points, each high-level question brings a maximum of 20 points. The maximum overall number of points is 90.

Students are obliged to choose exactly TWO questions from each level of difficulty. Any answer to an additionally chosen question will not be assessed!

The set of questions in this part include also analytical questions based on specific examples on the Theory of Translation.

Scoring and assessment criteria for the LINGUISTICS component

Scoring and assessment criteria for questions with low level of difficulty

Score	Assessment criteria
10	 i) full comprehension of terminology, reflected in the appropriateness of the identified elements or excellent execution of the assigned task; ii) error-free language.
7-9	i) demonstrates adequate knowledge of terminology reflected in the general appropriateness of the identified elements or sufficiently good execution of the assigned task; ii) error-free but fairly simple language.
4-6	 i) demonstrates poor knowledge of terminology, reflected in inappropriately identified linguistic elements or poor execution of the assigned task; ii) simple, non-fluent language with occasional grammatical errors.
0-3	i) little or no knowledge of terminology, reflected in wrong identification of linguisitic elements or inadequate execution of the assigned task;

ii) simple, non-fluent language with grave grammatical errors.

Scoring and assessment criteria for questions with intermediate level of difficulty

Score	Assessment criteria
13-15	i) comprehensiveness of the response;
	ii) relevance to the assigned task;
	iii) usage of appropriate terminology;
	iv) error-free language, demonstrating fluency.
9-12	i) adequate range of the response but somewhat unbalanced
	(e.g. extensive elaboration of some points at the expense of others);
	ii) mostly relevant to the topic but with some shortcomings in terms of detail or deviations from the focus of the question;
	iii) demonstrates adequate knowledge of terminology with infrequent inappropriate usage of terms;
	iv) error-free but fairly simple language with infrequent discrepancies on the level of pragmatics or register conventions.
5-8	i) incomplete response with some important elements of the task left uncovered;
	ii) rather messy, some parts of the answer not pertinent;
	iii) rather choppy, listing disconnected facts not supported by argument;
	iv) demonstrates poor knowledge of terminology: avoidance or inappropriate usage of terms;
	vi) simple, non-fluent language with occasional grammatical errors and serious deviations on the level of pragmatics or register conventions.
0-4	i) the answer is incomplete, vague or too short to be evaluated;
	ii) the answer is not relevant to the assigned task or is a mixture of random, chaotic, illogical, contradictory, incoherent facts and ideas;
	iii) little or no knowledge of terminology;
	iv) simple, non-fluent language with grave grammatical errors, serious pragmatic deviations and violation of style and register conventions.

Scoring and assessment criteria for questions with high level of difficulty

Score	Assessment criteria
16-20	i) comprehensiveness of the response;
	ii) relevance to the assigned task;
	iii) clearly stated/supported arguments;
	iv) usage of appropriate terminology;
	v) error-free language, demonstrating fluency and mastery of register conventions.
11-15	i) adequate range of the response but somewhat unbalanced (e.g. extensive elaboration of some points at the expense of others);
	ii) mostly relevant to the topic but with some shortcomings in terms of detail or focus;
	iii) loosely organized but the main arguments stand out;
	iv)demonstrates adequate knowledge of terminology with infrequent inappropriate usages of terms;
	v) error-free but fairly simple language with infrequent discrepancies on the level of pragmatics or register conventions.
6-10	i) incomplete response with some important elements of the task left uncovered;
	ii) rather messy, with some parts of the answer not pertinent;
	iii) rather choppy, listing disconnected facts not supported by argument;
	iv) demonstrates poor knowledge of terminology: avoidance or inappropriate usage of terms;

	v) simple, non-fluent language with occasional grammatical errors and serious deviations on the level of pragmatics or register conventions.
0-5	i) the answer is incomplete, vague or too short to be evaluated;
	ii) the answer is not relevant to the assigned task or is a mixture of random, contradictory or blatantly wrong arguments;
	iii) chaotic, illogical, contradictory, incoherent presentation of facts and ideas;
	iv) little or no knowledge of terminology;
	v) simple, non-fluent language with grave grammatical errors, serious pragmatic deviations and violation of register conventions.

LITERATURE & CULTURE COMPONENT

Format

The Literature component of the exam is based on four excerpts from literary texts, two of which will be drawn by a student on the day of the exam. The texts are accompanied by a set of 5 questions as specified below. The students will be expected to choose one of these excerpts and answer the questions in a written form.

The texts will each come from one of the following four periods/literary and cultural traditions:

- 1. English Medieval and Renaissance Literature;
- 2. English Literature of the Enlightenment and Romantic Periods;
- 3. Victorian, Modernist and Postmodernist English Literature;
- 4. American Literature from the Nineteenth Century to the Present.

The texts could belong to any of the following genres: prose, epic, poetry, drama. Word limit of the texts:

Prose – up to 350 words; Poetry – up to 30 lines; Drama – up to 350 words

The author will have been covered in the lectures and/or the seminars. If the excerpt comes from a novel, the work itself will have been discussed in the respective literature seminars during the course of study.

Five types of questions will be attached to each excerpt:

- 1. Questions focused on context: history, culture, genre, and/or tendency.
- 2. Questions focused on content: the position and the status of the excerpt within the work.
- 3. Questions focused on themes and ideas.
- 4. Questions focused on narrative techniques, imagery, rhyme, rhythm etc.
- 5. Questions focused on intertextual links and/or metatextual techniques.

Each of these may include sub-questions designed to guide the students in their answers.

The students will be expected to write a coherent analytical response in which they should dwell on as many of the abovementioned questions as they can. The students will make their own choice as to whether they will structure their answer as a complete essay or as separate answers to each of the questions (i.e., in five mini essays). The answer to each question should not be less than 200 words. No conclusion is required when the responses to the five questions are integrated in an essay.

Learning objectives and expected outcomes

Our goal in this component goal is an integrated assessment of students' knowledge and skills acquired during the course of studies. These include the knowledge-based abilities to:

- think critically about the thematic content and the rhetorical strategies of literary texts
- discuss a literary text's form in relation to themes and ideas; attend to features of its style
- make meaningful links between text and context exhibiting sufficient and solid knowledge of the period-specific aspects of the literature in question and the history of English and American literature and culture
- add a broader intertextual and/or metatextual perspective to their analysis
- construct coherent written responses to specific questions
- confine oneself to statements that are relevant to the question at hand (no sweeping generalizations and empty rhetoric)
- use appropriate tone and language for an academic audience; apply appropriately the relevant stylistic terminology
- use a reasonably wide range of vocabulary and structure
- handle, with few or no mistakes, basic sentence elements such as complete sentences, verb/subject agreement, verb tenses, mechanics of quotations, and parallelism

Scoring and assessment criteria for the LITERATURE & CULTURE component (short version):

Context	20 points
Content	10 points
Themes and ideas	20 points
Form	20 points
Intertextual links and metatextual techniques	10 points
Accuracy, range of vocabulary and Structure	10 points

Total: 90 points

Scoring and assessment criteria for the LITERATURE & CULTURE component (long version):

Topic Question	Score	Criteria
Context	Excellent to Very Good 20 – 15 points	Excellent knowledge of the subject relevant to the assigned topic; confident and informed discussion of the historical and intellectual context of the literary work; cogency in presenting links between text and context: outstanding knowledge in analyzing the genre and the major literary critical, philosophical and socioeconomic tendencies of the period.
	Good to Average 14 – 10 points	Adequate knowledge of the subject relevant to the assigned topic; clearly informed discussion of the historical and intellectual context of the literary work with some minor factual, historical, or thematic inconsistencies in the exposition; clearly presented links between text and context: appropriate knowledge in analyzing the genre and the major literary critical, philosophical and socioeconomic tendencies of the period.
	Fair to Poor 9 – 5 points	Sufficient knowledge of the subject relevant to the assigned topic; incomplete discussion of the historical and intellectual context of the literary work that shows some serious factual, historical, or thematic inconsistencies in the exposition; vaguely presented links between text and context: superficial knowledge of the genre and the major literary critical, philosophical and socioeconomic tendencies of the period.
	Poor 4 – 0 points	Insufficient knowledge of the subject; superficial discussion of the historical and intellectual context of the literary work that only shows limited or no knowledge of context and historical background; incorrectly presented links between text and context: simplistic or erratic knowledge of a genre and/or erroneous discussion of the major literary critical, philosophical and socioeconomic tendencies of the period; the response is incoherent, illogical, and chaotic; contradictory statements prevail.
Content	Excellent to Very Good 10 – 8 points	Knowledgeable approach to the selected poetic piece and cogent comment on its value and content when compared or contrasted to other poetic works by the same author; detailed and perceptive analysis of the position and the status of an excerpted text within the literary work; knowledgeable and cogent discussion of the assigned text in the plotline and the

TRANSLATION

The Translation component of the State Examination consists of two translation tasks:

- 1. Translation of an original English text into Bulgarian and
- 2. Translation of an original Bulgarian text into English.

The genre of the texts can be contemporary fiction or non-fiction. The length of each text is approximately 300 words.

Students should be able to demonstrate:

- Understanding of the lexical units, grammatical categories, cultural references, style, and the overall coherence of the source language text, and
- An ability to employ suitable translation techniques in order to reproduce those elements in the target language and create a coherent and linguistically accurate text.

Students are allowed to use dictionaries in print. The use of online or offline electronic dictionaries, encyclopaedias, glossaries, or other reference materials is not allowed!

Translation evaluation criteria:

- 1. Meaning accurate and complete rendition of meaning at word/phrase/sentence level. This involves:
 - correct use of lexical units (e.g. words, phrases, terms, names);
 - correct use of grammatical categories (e.g. temporality, modality, aspectuality, conditionality, futurity, definiteness, types of syntactic constructions);
 - omission or addition of information resulting in a partial or complete loss or change of meaning.
- 2. Style suitable linguistic expressions; readability; appropriate register. Points are deducted for awkward literal translation, clumsy phrasing, repetitions, unsuitable collocations, untypical word order, impaired readability, incongruous register, mixing of registers.
- 3. Spelling and punctuation
- 4. Particularly apt solutions bonus points are given for well-chosen, appropriately inventive solutions.
